

NO MOON TONIGHT

Don Charlwood

Don Charlwood, a wartime navigator with the Royal Australian Air Force, narrates this breathtaking true story of a wartime bomber crew facing the hazards of bombing strongly defended targets such as Essen, Dusseldorf and Berlin. No Moon Tonight gives a profound insight into the inner lives of the men of Bomber Command, their hopes and fears in the face of mounting losses. It has been favourably compared to the enduring memoirs of the 1st World War namely Sassoon's Memoirs of an Infantry Officer and Remarque's All Quiet on the Western Front.

Don Charlwood was born in Melbourne in 1915 and was accepted for RAAF aircrew in 1940. He carried out his initial training in Victoria, his air observer training in Canada and was posted to 103 Squadron at Elsham Wolds in the winter of 1942. There he crewed up with a pilot from Western Australia, with the rest of his crew coming from the UK. When he had completed his operational tour, he went to the USA to fly Liberators. At the end of the war, Don Charlwood joined the Department of Civil Aviation in Australia as an air traffic control officer.

A book of deep feelings depicting the human cost of the air war, this is the compelling story of a wartime bomber crew facing the nightly hazards of bombing the most closely defended targets in Germany. An acknowledged classic – now re-issued in the Goodall bomber crews paperback range.

Crécy Publishing Ltd £5.99
Publication: August 2000
ISBN: 0 907579 97 3

This article has been republished online with Open Access.

Ministry of Defence © Crown Copyright 2023. The full printed text of this article is licensed under the Open Government Licence v3.0. To view this licence, visit <https://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/doc/open-government-licence/>. Where we have identified any third-party copyright information or otherwise reserved rights, you will need to obtain permission from the copyright holders concerned. For all other imagery and graphics in this article, or for any other enquires regarding this publication, please contact: Director of Defence Studies (RAF), Cormorant Building (Room 119), Shrivenham, Swindon, Wiltshire SN6 8LA.

 ROYAL AIR FORCE
Centre for Air and Space Power Studies

OGL